GENERAL DATA PROTECTION REGULATION (GDPR) 2018

GDPR comes into force on 25th May 2018. Woodfield Social and Sports Club have a responsibility to protect its membership data. The following questions and answers outline the Club's policy:

- Q: What are we collecting?

A: Name, address, telephone number(s), email addresses, gender, date of birth, category of membership, history of roles held at the Club during the period of membership, website login details, frequency of visits to the Club website, relationship to other club members (where applicable), and details of matches where representing the club. Specifically, for junior members: contact details of supervision parent or guardian, consent (or otherwise) to accompany other Club members on away match travel, and consent (or otherwise) to be included in Club photography at selected events.

- Q: What do we do with your information?

A: The data is stored in a password-protected database for the purposes of analysis of membership trends, to reconcile subscription fees, and as a mailing list for maintaining contact between the Club and its membership.

- Q: Who do we share it with?

A: No data specific to any individual is circulated outside the Club. However, we are occasionally required to submit anonymised (removal of member identifiable information) participation data to various sporting bodies.

- Q: How long will it be stored and how can I delete it?

A: Member records are anonymised after three years of lapsed membership. This involves the removal of any member-identifiable information i.e. name, address, telephone number(s) and email addresses. However, date of birth and membership category information is retained to assist in the analysis of year-on-year membership trends. The Club will comply (within 14 days) to any request from a member for his/her membership data (or that of dependant children) to be deleted.
